

KNOW YOUR
HARRIS COUNTY GOVERNMENT

PRESENTED BY

Harris County Precinct One

El Franco Lee, COMMISSIONER

1001 Preston Ave., Suite 950
Houston, Texas 77002
713/755-6111

Greetings:

County government impacts our daily lives more than any other political entity. The judicial system is at work when we serve on a jury, have a will probated, or file a small claim. We also use county services when we purchase auto license tags, apply for a marriage license, register to vote, and many other services as we strive to provide accessible, quality service with a 'user friendly' methodology.

Harris County is the largest county in population in the State of Texas and it is important to understand how its operations impact us personally as well as its impact on our families and neighbors. Although Harris County Precinct One is highlighted, this booklet, 'Know Your County Government' has been prepared to give you a general overview of Harris County and its various operations. The purpose of this booklet is designed to fulfill a twofold mission of increasing your knowledge of the regulations and services provided through the Harris County system and to prepare you to meet the frequent challenges faced by citizens residing and working in a large mostly urban county.

The members of the Harris County Commissioners Court, along with its staff and departmental personnel are in a constant mode of evaluating its services and restructuring, where appropriate, for the purpose of making county services more accessible and efficient. In an effort to keep abreast of new technologies and implement new concepts based on the demands of an ever-growing city and county constituency, Harris County, by necessity, serves as the pivotal component in a vast metropolitan area. Within Harris County there exist some 34 municipalities, with the City of Houston being the most populated city in Harris County as well as the State of Texas. Harris County collaborates with some 5 or more contiguous counties in providing services from the offices of medical examiner, homeland security and emergency management, and hospital systems management, etc.

Your interest and support are very much appreciated and I look forward to your continued participation in the Harris County governmental process.

Sincerely,

El Franco Lee, Commissioner
Harris County Precinct One

For centuries, units of land have been subdivided for purposes of governing. The word ‘county’ dates back to the 1400s, to units of land in England, called ‘Shires’. English colonists brought the idea of ‘a county’ to North America.

County government was important to the growth and development of the United States. Historically, counties were created to carry out the administrative responsibilities of the states when there were few large cities, and small towns were scattered.

Today, the ‘county’ remains the most traditional form of government throughout the nation. Yet, as our cities grow to sizes approximating whole counties, the ‘county form of government’ is emerging as a leading and often necessary method to deal efficiently with large metropolitan areas.

Harris County, established in 1837 during the period when Texas was still a Republic, was recognized by the Texas Constitution in 1876 along with other subdivisions within the State of Texas. The State Constitution gave the Texas Legislature the authority to create subdivisions, which resulted in the State of Texas being divided into 254 counties.

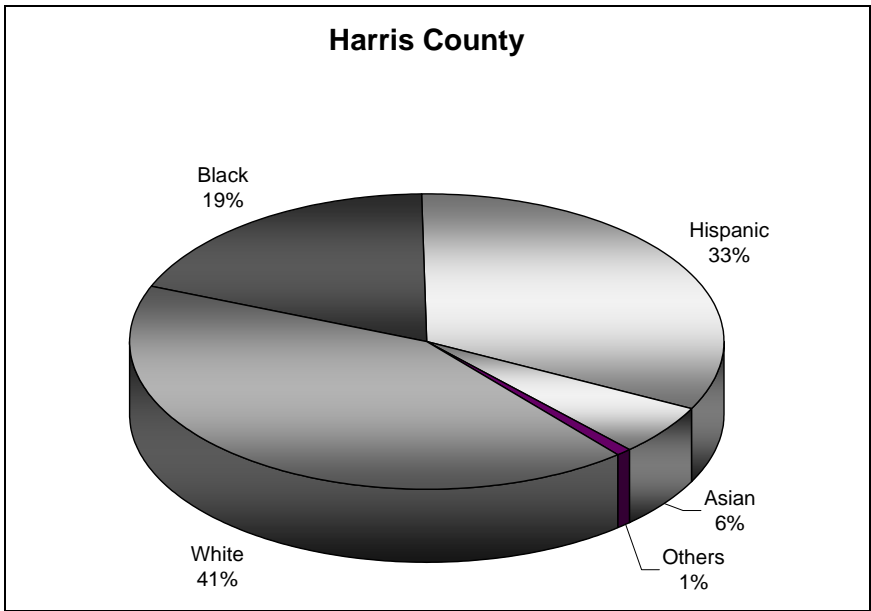

The State Constitution defines the divisions and organizational structure of every county. Each county is divided into four Commissioners’ precincts and can have up to eight Justice of the Peace precincts. Each county has the following elected officials: County Judge, four Commissioners, Constables, Justices of the Peace, Tax Assessor-Collector, Surveyor, Attorney, Treasurer, and Sheriff, who are elected officials with four-year terms of office.

A ‘county’ does not have the authority to establish its own laws. The legislature must enact special laws and ordinances for the county to enforce. County officials work closely with state lawmakers to develop legislation that supports the efficient operation of county government.

Harris County was created in 1837, covering some 1788 square miles with a Year 2004 population of 3.6 million. Harris County is the largest populous county in the State of Texas and the third most populous county in the United States. The City of Houston is the County seat.

According to the 2002 American Community Survey, authorized by the U.S. Census Bureau:

- the population was almost evenly divided between males and females;
- the median age was 31.8 years;
- 29% of the population were under 18 years and 7% were 65 years and older;
- 24% of the people living in Harris County in 2002 were foreign born; 76% were native including 70% who were born in Texas;
- Among people at least 5 years old living in Harris County in 2002, 38% spoke a language, in the home, other than English. Of those speaking a language in the home, other than English, 81% spoke Spanish and 19% spoke some other language; 50% reported that they did not speak English “very well”.

The Parks division is responsible for development and maintenance of some 28 parks, the largest number of all Harris County precinct parks. Precinct One Parks are second to none in the quality of maintenance of park facilities. Under the leadership of Commissioner Lee, Precinct One has led the way in the development of flood plain land for public recreations, such as the Clear Creek chain of parks in the southern part of the county. Commissioner Lee also leads in developing hike & bike and jogging trails with approximately 30 miles of trails located in Precinct One.

The Parks division clears land for recreational development, assists with the design and construction of parks and facilities, installs playground equipment, landscapes hike & bike and jogging trails, maintains lake and creek property, and handles constituent reservations for use of park facilities.

During the past three years, Commissioner Lee has, through the creation of successful collaboratives, designed and developed the 'Finnigan Park Project', a parks development program whereby some nine Precinct One parks have been renovated to include minor to substantial expansions, and several totally new park and community center construction projects.

The Parks division also manages the Horticulture section in the daily maintenance of all landscaping and annual color at Precinct One parks, service/community centers and annexes, and the entire downtown courthouse complex, including interior plants in each Commissioners' downtown office. Other public areas maintained in the downtown complex include courthouse exteriors and Quebedeaux Park. Our Horticulture staff does its own growing of annuals and perennials, of which approximately 29,000 bedding plants are grown each season; the department also grows some of its own trees and shrubs.

Q. Why and who collects taxes?

A. The main revenue source for the general operating budget for Harris County is derived through taxes. Tax categories for the general fund consists of property taxes (current and delinquent taxes) and occupational taxes on permits for coin-operated vending machines and state-regulated alcohol beverage permits. The only other tax collected is the hotel occupancy tax, which goes into a special revenue fund. This tax is derived from taxes imposed on a person who pays for use of a hotel or motel, and car rental.

Q. What are some other Harris County revenue sources?

State revenues are generated for the general fund through the collection of a percentage of the state mixed beverage tax, a portion of the fees assessed by the state for hazardous waste management, a portion of civil case filing fees returned by the state, and commissions from the state for bingo tax.
